Mahatma Gandhi

is an inspiration to millions of people all over the world for his principles, vision & knowledge.

Gandhiji, a born educationist, advocated for free and compulsory education for the masses and viewed education as the backbone of the society and pivotal in its upliftment. By education he expected an all round development of the 'individual', i.e., his body, mind and spirit. His belief in education was not based on the knowledge of reading and writing rather he cherished for empowering the underprivileged, building character and promoting self-development. Gandhiji knows that people have no idea of true education. They assess the value of education in the same manner as they assess the value of land or of shares in the stock exchange market. At MGU, we endeavour to provide education which leads to the reflection of the character. So it may be irrelevant to quote Gandhiji when he says,

“Live as you were to die tomorrow
Learn as if you were to live forever.”

Gandhiji's educational ideas were thus meant to transform backwardness, illiteracy, exploitation of the poor section of society. He believed that only education can transform them into an industrious, self-respecting and generous cooperative community.

Inspirational Best Wishes From Former President of India

“I am delighted to know that Mahatma Gandhi University, Meghalaya is offering skill development certificate, diploma and degree programmes in campus through direct classroom and distance learning. To make the entire programme useful to the youth of the nation, education system should highlight the importance of entrepreneurship and prepare the students to get oriented towards setting up of enterprises which will provide them creativity, freedom and ability to generate wealth. University in partnership with the banks should facilitate provision of venture capital to the prospective entrepreneurs for creating enterprises. The university must also hold the hand of entrepreneurs till they produce nationally and internationally competitive products. Thus, Mahatma Gandhi University, Meghalaya will become the first university to generate employment generators rather than employment seekers. My greetings and best wishes to all the members of Mahatma Gandhi University, Meghalaya for success in their mission of generating employable youth who will be partners in our national development.”

— Late Dr. APJ Abdul Kalam

Education is not just about the subjects that are taught and learned in schools and colleges. Being educated is not limited to the physical confines of an institution or simply gathering certificates that lose their utility when students are thrust into this ever competitive world where mediocrity is seldom rewarded. Rather, education is a lifelong process that can be unbelievably rewarding if pursued with the right motives and frame of mind.

If you want to take a look at Asia's cleanest village, don't forget to visit Mawlynnong. Lying on the border separating India from Bangladesh, Mawlynnong is an amazingly clean village in Meghalaya where every street corner has a bamboo dustbin to ensure nature-friendly disposal of trash. The focal point of attraction of this village is the Sky Watch, which is a bamboo structure that offers sweeping views of the Bangladeshi plains from the top. Meghalaya has a history of rich craftsmanship, and wood-carving and artistic weaving are famous crafts here, especially in the Jaintia and Khasi districts.

Living Root Bridges - Cherapunjee: Possibly Meghalaya's most famous attraction, deep in the dense tropical forest and shrouded in cloud and rain for much of the year, are some astonishing man-made natural wonders known as living root bridges.

Garo Hills: Garo Hills having densely forested and hence one of the richest spots in biodiversity.

Arwah Caves: Arwah Caves is a gateway to whole another underground world.

Mawryngkhang Bamboo Trek: Thrill seekers will love the new Mawryngkhang bamboo Trek.

Mawlynnong: Mawlynnong village was named the "Cleanest Village in Asia" by a travel magazine.

Umiam Lake: Adventure lovers can enjoy boating & various water-sports. Apart from the tranquillity that Umiam Lake has to offer, one can also observe the daily life of the natives.
